Quinn Donnelly is an aggressive and diligent advocate who understands the importance of preparation, thorough research, and effective communication.

As a trial attorney, Quinn takes a holistic approach and is uniquely equipped to identify issues and opportunities at each stage of the litigation to best position his client to achieve a favorable result. He is a skilled oral advocate and a careful and detail-oriented cross-examiner.

While tempered for battle, Quinn understands that sometimes the best defense is a good offense. He works with clients to anticipate and identify potential areas of exposure and helps them implement solutions to minimize these risks and avoid unnecessary costs.

His practice includes the defense of employment claims, construction defect and injury claims, premises and general liability claims, product liability claims, and professional negligence claims of all types.

Quinn's results-driven approach and his abilities as an advocate have been recognized by his peers, who have identified him as a Rising Star in multiple areas of defense litigation.

Outside of the courtroom, Quinn is a PADI Open Water Scuba Instructor and Master Scuba Diver Trainer, who has certified over 80 divers. In his free time, Quinn serves as the Secretary of the Executive Board for Chicago Gateway Green and enjoys traveling, motorcycling, and alpine skiing. Quinn was born and raised on the Southside of Chicago, where he now lives with his wife Maria and their son.
